2. Aims of the programme

Rationale and general aims
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To encourage students in their enjoyment of and commitment to literature. 2. To deliver a diverse curriculum which encourages the understanding and analysis of the functions of language and literature, including from periods before 1800. 3. To develop students' capacity to analyse, evaluate and formulate critical opinion and to provide appropriate evidence in support of it. 4. To encourage students to respond creatively to literature and to develop the ability to produce new knowledge and generate fresh perspectives on existing knowledge. 5. Develop students' abilities in group work, project management, effective communication and research. 6. To provide teaching that is informed by a departmental culture of research and scholarship. 7. To teach students how to collect, organise, and analyse data through detailed study of literary texts.

8. To encourage students to work in flexible and creative ways, by developing skills and habits of self-motivation and independence in study of thought.
9. To help students prepare and present assessed work in an articulate manner, both individually and in collaboration, and in various media.
10. To provide a basis for the further study of English at all levels
11. To prepare students, through the development of an appropriate range of knowledge and skills, for a career in Journalism, writing, teaching, or related fields.

3. Student learning outcomes of the programme

Learning outcomes in terms of:

- knowledge and understanding (K)
- intellectual / cognitive / 'thinking' skills (I)
- physical skills specific to the subject (P)
- employability skills (E)

The 'K1', etc codes are used in section 7c) and module descriptors to refer to each of these learning outcomes.

Programmes of study should incorporate the generic learning outcomes set out below. With the exception of the employability skills, which should be kept intact, course proposers should enhance, embed, contextualise and/or make these learning outcomes more specific as appropriate.

On successful completion of the programme students will have demonstrated:

English

- K1 Literary Knowledge – sound knowledge and critical understanding of a substantial number of literary texts, written in the principal literary genres of fiction, poetry and drama, from most of the periods of English literary history including those before 1800.
- K2 Contextual Knowledge – sound knowledge of a range of literary contexts, including those before 1800, and an awareness of the ways in which they might have influenced the production and the reception of period literature.
- K3 Knowledge of Subject Conventions and Resources – sound knowledge and understanding of the scholarly conventions appropriate to the discipline and the current information- and communication-strategies required in order to conduct research and to create knowledge and expertise.
- K4 Knowledge about Language – knowledge and understanding of the structure, variety, history and use of the English language.
- I1 Interpretation – secure use of appropriate critical skills in the close reading, analysis, interpretation, and evaluation of literary and other texts.
- I2 Relating to Context – an ability to relate a critical interpretation of texts to their historical and socio-cultural contexts.
- I3 Creating Solutions – an ability to identify and solve problems critically through the use appropriate research techniques, resources and methods to locate and select appropriate evidence and to create coherent evidence-based solutions.
- I4 Communicating Solutions – an ability to communicate research findings in accordance with the normal academic standards and conventions of presentation and to do so adequately in various fora and media.

- I5 Linguistic Self-Reflection – an ability to evaluate and analyse critically the ways in which language and literature can construct and deconstruct identities.
- I6 Ethical Self-Awareness – an ability to use different critical approaches to literary texts, discuss texts in relation to ethical debates, and reflect from an international perspective on their own assumptions and practices as readers.

Journalism

- K1 detailed knowledge and understanding of the key historical, political, economic, social and cultural contexts of society, with particular reference to the media and broadcast journalism, as well as broader knowledge of related industries;
- K2 ability to engage with contemporary debates and writings around the role of the news media and related industries and their impact on society;
- K3 detailed knowledge of the legal and ethical issues which arise in journalism
- K4 understanding of multi-media and digital platforms, their role in journalism and related industries, and their impact on media audiences;
- I1 ability to identify the relationship between theory and practice in the field of study and to critically analyse the issues which arise out of this;
- I2 ability to appreciate the ethical dimensions of the practice, purposes and effects of journalism and other news-related communication as an occupation;
- I3 ability to carry out academic research in order to analyse and critique the role and impact of broadcast journalism, the broader news media and other related fields, on society;
- I4 detailed reasoning and critical thinking appropriate to analysis and problem solving and the ability to present a sustained argument on the basis of substantial independent learning;
- P1 the acquisition of specific practical and transferable skills of writing for the news media and the acquisition of multi-media skills relevant to the news journalism and other news-related communication fields;
- P2 effective utilisation of communication skills relevant specifically to news journalism and more broadly to other news-related communication fields;
- P3 initiative, enquiry and time-management, both in self-directed and team work

Employability skills

- E1 Self-management – the ability to plan and manage time; readiness to accept responsibility and improve their own performance based on feedback/reflective learning; the ability to take initiative and be proactive, flexible and resilient;
- E2 Teamworking – the ability to co-operate with others on a shared task and to recognise and take on appropriate team roles; leading, contributing to discussions and negotiating; contributing to discussions; awareness of interdependence with others;

- E3 Business and sector awareness – an understanding of the key drivers for business success, including the importance of customer/client satisfaction and innovation; understanding of the market/sector in which an organisation operates; the ability to recognise the external context and pressures on a organisation, including concepts such as value for money, profitability and sustainability;
- E4 Problem-solving – a capacity for critical reasoning, analysis and synthesis; a capacity for applying knowledge in practice; an ability to retrieve, analyse and evaluate information from different sources;
- E5 Communication – the ability to present information clearly and appropriately, both orally and in writing, and to tailor messages to specific audiences and purposes;
- E6 Application of numeracy – a general awareness of mathematics and its application in practical contexts; the ability to carry out arithmetic operations and understand data, to read and interpret graphs and tables and to manage a budget;
- E7 Application of information technology – the ability to identify the appropriate IT package for a given task; familiarity with word-processing, spreadsheets and file management; the ability to use the internet and email effectively.
- E8 Entrepreneurship/enterprise – the ability to demonstrate an innovative approach and creativity, to generate ideas and to identify and take opportunities;
- E9 Social, cultural & civic awareness – embracement of an ethos of community and civic responsibility; an appreciation of diversity and ethical issues; an understanding of cultures and customs in the wider community.

Statement of congruence with the relevant published subject benchmark statements
(including appropriate references to the FHEQ and any PSRB, employer or legislative requirements)

All new programme submissions should be accompanied by copies of external advisory and regulatory documents relevant to the programme.

All English programmes are compliant with the most recent subject benchmark statements from the following agencies:

- QAA [Quality Assurance Agency] for English (2007);
- HEA [Higher Education Authority] - English Subject Centre benchmark statements for English Language (2011)
- HEA [Higher Education Authority] – Employability: Framework for Higher Education Institutions (2013)
- NAWE [National Association of Writers in Education] Creative Writing Research document (2008)
- SCONUL [Society of College, National and University Libraries] - Seven Pillars of Information Literacy (2011): [<http://www.sconul.ac.uk/sites/default/files/documents/researchlens.pdf>]

Although there are no current plans to seek accreditation for this programme, the National Council for the Training of Journalists' (NCTJ) curriculum is reflected in the programme content.

4. Learning outcomes for subsidiary awards

This section should be retained verbatim in all honours degree programme specifications. Sets of standard wording for programme specifications for foundation degrees are available from AQSO.

5. Content

Summary of content by theme

(providing a 'vertical' view through the programme)

English

Level 4: Foundation and Tools

The Level 4 core provides a foundation for the further development of subject knowledge and skills at Levels 5 and 6. Students learn the distinctive characteristics of the different literary genres (drama, poetry, narrative), acquire basic understanding of language structure and a range of critical terms and issues, and develop their communication and research skills.

Level 5: Range and Exploration

The Level 5 core is organised around a chronological strand which develops subject knowledge and critical skills through the study of a literary period; students also choose a second module which may either continue the period focus or provide opportunity to develop intellectual skills through the study of creative, critical and ethical issues around a particular topic.

Level 6: Focus and Specialisation

At Level 6 the chronological strand continues with the study of Victorian Literature and opportunity is provided to pursue further, more independent, study in another period. Chronological and reflective strands meet in the requirement to complete a 4000-word on a topic chosen by the student and approved after consultation with an appointed member of staff. The creative writing pathway may be pursued by taking ENG6742 Writing Practices 3: Experimental Writing. There is also a professional placement option to continue the employability strand.

Journalism

At Level 4 the course is designed to provide a sound foundation in multiplatform practical and academic skills culminating in a six week professional block where the skills learned can be put into practice.

At Level 5, key professional skills will be further developed through a 40-credit Specialist Reporting module, which encourages them to develop the skills and knowledge to report on a number of selected niche areas. Students will work in a newsroom setting, file content to deadline and with a content management system.

At Level 6 the course provides the opportunity for students to enhance their academic and professional skills through independent supported study culminating in a professional multiplatform portfolio.

Students will learn writing skills relevant to multiplatform journalism at all three levels. They will gain a foundation in multiplatform practical skills at Level 4 in the 6-week professional block. A knowledge of law as it applies to journalism is integrated throughout the programme.

Employability

During the first part of Level 5 Semester 2 all students will take a Professional Development and Placement module (ENG 5012 or JOU 5942), completing a placement in a context relevant to either English or Journalism; this further prepares them for future employment and requires them to reflect on the application of their knowledge and skills to problems and challenges in the workplace. A further opportunity to prepare for employment by completing a placement is provided at Level 6.

7. Learning, teaching and assessment

7a) Statement of the strategy for learning, teaching and assessment for the programme

English

(i) Towards Independent Learning

The English programmes are designed to develop a confident and competent approach to independent learning. Independent learning skills are developed through the setting of specific tasks in teaching sessions; through the structure of assessment tasks, and through the provision of specific tuition, guidance and support in the completion of those tasks. This is done in line with a stepped development of research/library skills over the 3-year course in line with SCONUL's '7 Pillars of Information Literacy' structure. Students will be encouraged to make full use of digital resources and to engage with new developments in digital humanities.

At Level 4 (Foundation and Tools) there is an emphasis on learning what university-level study involves – including formal qualities of scholarship and the construction and communication of a clear argument. The core module ENG4572 Language in Theory; Language in Context specifically explains and trains these skills.

At Level 5 (Range and Exploration) student essays and presentations are structured in such a way that the research skills acquired in Level 4 are both developed and also set to work against a (controlled) set of projects (i.e. once the formal structures are in place some more challenging content is provided). Students consolidate their understanding of good scholarship, practise the skills introduced at Level 4, and explore the full range of research resources available.

At Level 6 (Focus and Specialisation) students are encouraged to outline the research methods and sources they will use in order to plan and structure active research; and are required to formulate their own essay questions for some modules (eg for the ENG6702 English Research Report the core ENG6522 Literary Period: Victorian Literature module). At Level 6 the core module in semester 1 handles the transition to more independent academic research skills and the modules in semester 2 provide opportunities for students to make independent judgements about their application.

(ii) Teaching

Teaching is characterised by:

- The aim to stimulate enjoyment of reading and interest in subject scholarship
- Clear communication in speech and writing, with effective use of handouts and/or visual display materials to provide information and guidance and to support learning
- Content designed in such a way as to provide challenge, coherence and support
- Active learning activities with clear objectives, with appropriately varied tasks and organisation, playing to different learning styles and making effective use of time and resources
- Guidance for independent learning, communicated through tutorials and workshops or via VLE support.
- Innovation and renewal through sharing of good practice and input from internal and external training.
- Active engagement with the university's Learning and Teaching strategy and also with development in digital humanities.

At all Levels teaching is mainly through workshops, usually with no more than 30 students at a time, combining presentation of information by the tutor with learning activities and group discussion, followed by feedback and reflection. At Level 6 there are increased opportunities for individual tutorials.

(iii) Assessment

The programme provides a varied and diverse set of assessment methods, such as standard essays and exams, but also quizzes, reports, poster presentations, creative writing, and presentations (group and individual). This combination of modes reflects the varied focus on the specific skills or knowledge being assessed, but also has additional justifications:

- making different demands upon the students in order to encourage the development of varying learning skills;
- doing justice to different aptitudes for particular assessment methods;
- ensuring that appropriate modes of assessment can be matched against scheme and individual module objectives;
- enabling active learning opportunities for working with digital humanities.
- safeguarding the integrity and reliability of assessment for the scheme.

At Level 6 all students also take at least one module (ENG 6702 English Research Report) designed to offer maximum opportunity for independent learning and specialisation.

(iv) Review

The programme's teaching and learning is continually monitored and changes are made in the light of feedback from the following sources:

- Module mark profiles (by individual assessment and module as a whole)
- Module Evaluation Questionnaires
- Module Evaluation reports, considered at the Student-Staff Academic Committees
- External Examiner's report.

Journalism

The structure and content of the core academic/theoretical modules are such that, from one level to the next, material is offered in a logical, coherent and progressive fashion which progresses student learning and critical understanding of the subject. The modules are designed to ensure that students are fully informed of contemporary media and journalistic institutions and practices, but can also interrogate, challenge and analyse practice in the context of current debates and key theoretical ideas.

The academic core modules and strands at levels 4 and 5 provide the opportunity for students to learn higher level skills of analysis and critical thinking. At level 6 students apply their learning from levels 4 and 5 through independent but supported in-depth study. All students are required to take a research based module at Level 6 and they have a number to choose from providing greater or less direction depending on the choice.

The programme has been developed in such a way that the amount of independent study increases over the three years. At Level 4 the emphasis is on teaching the basic skills through an all-core curriculum. Level 5 sees a move towards independent study through the level and with greater choice in terms of core preferences. In Level 6, the emphasis is on learning rather than teaching with students exercising choice in terms of modules and managing their own workload in a supportive environment.

Practical journalistic skills form a core throughout the programme in the modules named Practical Journalism. These modules are designed to develop and strengthen the skills through the levels and also inform practice across levels in other practically based modules. Students are introduced to Radio and TV skills and have to utilise multi-platform story-telling in the final year Digital Media Portfolio.

Professional development is specifically addressed through the two modules: Practical Journalism 1 at Level 4 and Professional Development and Placement (PDPM) at Level 5, which students on this programme can select as an option and which includes some preparation for placement in terms of media law. The former introduces students to the key competence skills of shorthand and sees the year culminate in a 6-week college-based news production project.

An understanding of the ethical issues relating to journalism is built into the course throughout the core and core preference modules.

Group work is an integral part of the programme. Assessment of group work is informed by good practice across the sector. Wherever group work leads to a group summative mark, an individual report is also required that must include an evaluation of the group work experience.

The programme uses a range of teaching methods, including lectures, tutorials, seminars and workshops as appropriate to the subject matter and student numbers. The focus in all practical journalism classes is on replicating industry experience and industry standards.

Assessment in the programme in Journalism:

1. uses a variety of written forms and practical activities and productions in order to reflect the academic and vocational elements of the programme;
2. uses a combination of coursework in order to test students' ability to work to different time-scales and within different constraints;
3. uses forms of work which are modelled on related professional practice as far as is consistent with working conditions and the requirements of effectiveness;
4. as a consequence of 3, is applied to group work only in strictly controlled situations;
5. progressively moves from testing breadth to depth of knowledge, understanding and skills;
6. as a consequence of 5, progressively limits the number of items per module required for assessment.
7. spreads the workload in some modules across the first semester in level 4 to support transition to HE
8. reflects the College's mission by its concern with development and the affirmation of individual learners;
9. achieves effectiveness by means of College and Faculty procedures, policies and guidelines for design, marking and administration of processes.

In determining the appropriate form of assessment for each module due regard was given to the nature of the module and the best means of enabling student to demonstrate they have met the objectives. Assignments will be set carefully to diminish as much as possible the likelihood of students resorting to plagiarism.

Several modules throughout the programme area assessed by portfolio where students are given the opportunity to build their skills through the production of short pieces of work before moving on to more heavily weighted (in terms of assessment) work later in the module.

8. Entry requirements

A strong rationale must be provided for any deviation from the following norms; as a minimum, the "Other non-certificated requirements..." section must be completed:

Honours degree programmes
Applicants should normally have achieved the following prior to registration for the programme: 5 academic or vocational qualifications, of which at least 2 should be GCE 'A' levels (or equivalent at level 3) and 1 should be GCSE English Language at a minimum of grade C (or equivalent). Some equivalent qualifications and the current typical offer conditions in terms of UCAS Tariff points are detailed in the undergraduate prospectus. For students whose first language is not English a pass in an approved test in English is needed, eg. the International English Language Testing Service (IELTS) and the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Applications are welcome from those with few or no formal qualifications. Any previous relevant work experience and learning will be assessed and, where appropriate, accredited as part of the application process. Please see Leeds Trinity's Principles and Guidelines for the Accreditation of Prior Learning.

9. Progression, classification and award requirements

Details of requirements for student progression between levels and receipt of the award(s) (A certain level of attainment which must be achieved in a specific module; any modules exempted from condonement, any deviation from the standard institutional stipulations for award classification, eg. exclusion of Level 4 module marks from Foundation Degree classification)
The standard progression requirements apply.

10. Prerequisites

Details of modules which must be passed before enrolment on a module at a higher level Include the rationale which justifies imposition of the prerequisite(s) and the mark/grade required.
Successful completion of ENG4742 Writing Practices 1 is required for progression to ENG5742 Writing Practices 2. The L5 module depends upon awareness and experience of the writing skills taught and trained in the L4 module. Successful completion of ENG 5742 Writing Practices 2 is required for progression to ENG6742 Writing Practices 3. The L6 module depends upon awareness and experience of the writing skills taught and trained in the L5 module. Successful completion of ENG 5412 Literary Period: Twentieth-Century Literature is required for progression to ENG 6912 Postmodern Fiction. The L6 module extends and develops complex literary concepts and practices that are covered in the L5 module. Successful completion of ENG5522 Literary Period: The Middle Ages is required for progression to ENG6552 Continuing Middle Ages. The L6 module extends and develops complex literary concepts and practices that are covered in the L5 module. Successful completion of ENG 5542 Literary Period: The Renaissance is required for progression to ENG 6562 Elizabethan Love Poetry and also for ENG 6162 Literary Period: Seventeenth-Century Literature. The L6 module extends and develops complex literary concepts and practices that are covered in the L5 module. Students must have passed ENG 5012 Professional Development and Placement Module or equivalent at >60% to be eligible to take ENG 6412 Professional Development for English. Demonstration of responsibility and self-management is required from the L5 module in order to demonstrate ability to identify and set up a suitably beneficial project for the L6 module.

11. External examining arrangements

External examining arrangements

(eg. joint with another programme – extended duties for someone already in post – or separate, single/multiple examiners; if multiple examiners, which subjects / types of module are to be allocated to each)

Results for ENG modules and HUM 5902 will be approved by the Panel of Examiners for English and covered by existing external examiner arrangements for English programmes. There will normally be one external examiner for all English programmes.

Results for JOU modules will be approved by the Panel of Examiners for Journalism and covered by existing external examiner arrangements for Journalism programmes.

12. Additional information

Details regarding arrangements in respect of any special features of the programme/scheme, (eg. a non-standard delivery pattern, study abroad, a field course, specific work placement, opportunities for onward progression from foundation degrees)

13. Additional support needs

Arrangements made to accommodate students with additional support needs and any unavoidable restrictions on their participation in the programme/scheme

(Key aspects of the Equality Impact Assessment for the Department – see Internal Audit Form NP2G for further details)

There are no particular factors that might impose restrictions on participation in or engagement with the English side of the programme. A number of events will normally be organised by the department to support student learning on the programme (eg theatre trips, public poetry events, and the writers' festival). Students will be encouraged to participate but will not be disadvantaged, in relation to completion of their programme or of individual modules within the programme, if they are unable to participate.

Some students with physical impairments might encounter difficulties with lifting and managing camera equipment. In some cases this might require personal assistance. These matters will be discussed as individual cases arise. Shorthand is a competence standard and so whilst every effort will be made to support students with disabilities to take the modules that include shorthand, the physical ability to take shorthand is a requirement.
