5. Content

Summary of content by theme

(providing a 'vertical' view through the programme)

The Media and Marketing degree programme contains a range of modules organised into three strands. These provide you with knowledge, understanding and skills relevant to media and marketing and relating to: analysis and theory; creativity and production; and industry and professionalism.

The programme content has been developed in recognition of the technology-driven innovations which have fostered ever closer links between these two sectors, particularly in terms of brand content and storytelling which now central to so many business, public and third sector organsiations.

Throughout the three years, the programme offers core modules which develop key marketing skills, alongside a deep understanding of the online and collaborative nature of media and business thanks to a plethora of digital and social media tools. There is a strong media theoretical context with an opportunity to develop either theoretical knowledge or practical skills through option modules or further develop specialist marketing knowledge.

At Level 4 students are provided with a solid foundation of knowledge and understanding of the ways in which the media and the wider culture in which it exists can be understood and analysed. Students also learn the skills necessary for creating and communicating stories across a variety of media. In addition, students gain an understanding of the core principles of marketing and, at the end of the first year, there will be opportunities to apply and extend that learning during your professional placement in a media or marketing related organisation.

At Level 5 students are encouraged to continue to gain further production skills and industry knowledge whilst starting to specialise. Through the option module choices it is possible to balance the programme towards more media-based knowledge or expand knowledge in marketing and / or PR.

By Level 6, students will be able to tackle larger projects more independently and the key focus for this will be the 40-credit research project as well as a specialist production module. Again, option choice allows the focus to be balanced towards more media content or more marketing. There is also the opportunity to build on previous placements and gain more work-place experience by selecting the Professional Learning Through Work module.

The combination of hands-on work-based experience, theory and practice (and theory into practice) study across all three levels enables students to develop and hone skills specific to marketing, social marketing, broader media environment and a range of employability skills.

7. Learning, teaching and assessment

7a) Statement of the strategy for learning, teaching and assessment for the programme

This programme is consistent with University Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategy as follows

- i) by aspiring to match best practice in HE in all aspects of the learning environment
- ii) by engaging you in active learning in all aspects of your study
- iii) by involving you in applied assessment and projects based on real-world scenarios
- iv) by allowing you to negotiate some aspects of assessment

The structure and content of the core academic are theory modules are designed so that the material you engage with is introduced in a logical, coherent and progressive manner which supports your learning and critical understanding of all aspects of the programme. Modules are designed so that you are able to engage with contemporary issues and practices and clearly link taught content to the professional/vocational element of the programme.

Techniques of research, analysis and evaluation are a distinctive part of studying for a degree and the academic modules at levels 4 and 5 provide you with the opportunity to develop your skills of analysis and critical thinking. In your final year, you will apply your learning from levels 4 & 5 through independent but supported in-depth study.

The programme uses a range of teaching methods including lectures, tutorials, seminars, workshops, project work and consultation as appropriate to the subject matter and student numbers. Small group learning is a feature throughout the programme and group work is an integral part of the programme.

Assessment in the programme uses a variety of written forms and practical activities and productions in order to reflect the academic and vocational elements of the programme and to enable tutors to introduce work which is modelled on related professional best practice.

8. Entry requirements

Honours degree programmes

Applicants should normally have achieved the following prior to registration for the programme:

5 academic or vocational qualifications, of which at least 2 should be GCE 'A' levels (or equivalent at level 3) and one should be GCSE English Language at grade C (or equivalent).

Some equivalent qualifications and the current typical offer conditions in terms of UCAS Tariff points are detailed in the undergraduate prospectus. For students whose first language is not English, a pass in an approved test in English is needed, e.g. the International English Language Testing Service (IELTS), with a minimum of 6.0 and with no component below 5.5, or accepted equivalent test. Full details of entry requirements are published by course on the Leeds Trinity website.

Applications are welcome from those with few or no formal qualifications. Any previous relevant work experience and learning will be assessed and, where appropriate, accredited as part of the application process. Please see Leeds Trinity's Principles and Guidelines for the Recognition of Prior Learning.

9. Progression, classification and award requirements

Details of requirements for student progression between levels and receipt of the award(s) (A certain level of attainment which must be achieved in a specific module; any modules exempted from condonement, any deviation from the standard institutional stipulations for award classification, e.g. exclusion of Level 4 module marks from Foundation Degree classification)

Undergraduate Taught Course Academic Regulations apply.

The following modules are exempted from condonement:

MFC 4012 Professional Development and Placement

MFC 5012 Professional Development and Placement

10. Prerequisites

Details of modules which must be passed before enrolment on a module at a higher level Include the rationale which justifies imposition of the prerequisite(s) and the mark/grade required.

The specialist production option modules listed below are the only modules that require a prerequisite.

MFC 5042 Script to Screen is a pre-requisite for MFC 6404 Advanced Short Film Production: the Level 5 module provides key creative and practical skills and knowledge without which students will be at a disadvantage at Level 6.

MFC 5042 Script to Screen or MFC 5202 Documentary: Theory and Practice are pre-requisites for MFC 6044 Advanced Documentary Production to ensure students have the required production film skills for this module.

MFC 5052 Radio and Podcast Production is a pre-requisite for JOU 6002 Advanced Radio Production: the Level 5 module provides key creative and practical skills and knowledge without which students will be at a disadvantage at Level 6.

MFC 5572 Digital Narratives is a pre-requisite for MFC 6564 Transmedia Production: the Level 5 module provides key creative and practical skills and knowledge without which students will be at a disadvantage at Level 6.

11. Additional support needs

Arrangements made to accommodate students with additional support needs and any unavoidable restrictions on their participation in the programme/scheme

Students with disabilities or other support needs are welcome and are expected to be able to participate fully in this programme. Arrangements will be made, via the normal University support systems, to accommodate students with additional support needs wherever possible, with reasonable adjustments made to accommodate individual needs. Students with serious visual or hearing impairments may be unable to achieve some of the learning outcomes of some modules and wherever possible alternative forms of learning and assessment will be devised to compensate for this. The specific details of each individual student's needs can be discussed at the application stage.
