2. Aims of the programme

Rationale and general aims, including what is special about this programme (from the student's and a marketing perspective)
The aim of the Foundation Year is to provide you with an introduction to the main forms of analysis and critical debate applied within the arts and humanities subject areas. Through engagement with images (brands, art, icons, illustrations, photographs, films) and communication (how stories capture attention in documentaries, films, TV, drama) you will learn how the creative industries address various audience expectations across a range of media. Your insight and technical understanding will clarify what is involved in assessing, evaluating and critiquing work in the arts and the humanities, but also how to design and create your own media work. You will be provided with an opportunity to actively develop your knowledge of a variety of debates and concepts from the humanities and arts whilst gaining specialised tuition in core academic skills. Within interactive sessions practice and production are encouraged as a way to understand analysis and evaluation, but also to bring these subjects alive, demonstrating the range and scope of their application. Through the deep understanding of these fundamental concepts and theories it is anticipated that your confidence and readiness for Level 4 study will be enhanced. This programme offers you an alternative entry route for undergraduate study if you are not in a position to commence your university studies at Level 4. Therefore, the Arts and Communication Foundation Year pathway aims to provide access to higher education for students who may otherwise be excluded from university study. For example, you might not have the usual entry requirements to commence learning at Level 4. It is also intended to be a useful pathway for students who have been out of education for a number of years. You may also wish to further build your confidence before studying at Level 4. The Foundation Year in Arts and Communication pathway consequently endeavours to promote a widening of participation in higher education.

On completion of the Foundation Year, you should be well equipped to go on to Level 4 study on one of the named linked honours degree programmes in the areas of English, photography, politics, media, television, film and philosophy, ethics and religion.

3. Student learning outcomes of the programme

Learning outcomes in terms of:

- knowledge and understanding (K)
- intellectual / cognitive / 'thinking' skills (I)
- practical skills specific to the subject (P)
- employability skills (E)

The 'K1', etc codes are used in section 7b) and module descriptors to refer to each of these learning outcomes.

On successful completion of the foundation year, students will have demonstrated:

- K1 knowledge of selected media concepts and techniques that are central to the arts and humanities
- K2 an understanding of the basic theories that academics have used to analyse the nature of images and communication techniques and also to assess their wider psychological, social, and cultural impact
- K3 knowledge of the role played by those concepts, techniques, and theories in establishing contested themes and topics within the arts and humanities
- K4 knowledge of scholarly conventions and academic processes appropriate to the arts, humanities and associated academic disciplines
- K5 knowledge of methods and strategies appropriate to communicate research findings in the arts and humanities
- I1 ability to deploy concepts and theories ideas relevant to understanding image and the modern media.
- I2 ability to apply appropriate strategies in diverse media to the communication of arts and humanities knowledge
- I3 ability to recognise and describe several theories that have been employed to explain images
- I4 ability to present results that draw appropriately upon scholarly research and debate

Employability skills

- E1 Self-management – the ability to plan and manage time; readiness to accept responsibility and improve their own performance based on feedback/reflective learning; the ability to take initiative and be proactive, flexible and resilient

7. Learning, teaching and assessment

7a) Statement of the strategy for learning, teaching and assessment for the programme

The learning and teaching provision on the Foundation Year in Arts and Communication is aligned with the central goals, objectives and features of the University's Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategy 2020-2023. It will provide an experience which is engaging and inclusive and a framework within which students are encouraged to begin to their abilities to engage in critical thinking and analytical skills. These are however contextualised within the nature of Level 3.

The following approaches are prioritised in the Foundation Year of the linked arts, humanities and communication degrees:

Learning

The focus will be on ensuring that students have an opportunity to develop their understanding of key concepts that are introduced in each module by applying them through active enquiry, practical research tasks, exercises, and collaborative projects.

A Progressive Learning Structure is built into the course design:

Students will begin their Level 3 by having an opportunity to develop their academic skills and confidence, before having an opportunity to apply these when they study a negotiated topic of choice for the Project module in Semester 2. How to effectively engage in academic writing, oral presentation and research information will be focused upon in the first semester of the Foundation Year. In their studies of arts, communication and humanities students will begin by looking at key issues before applying academic concepts and theories to these.

Teaching

- Student-Led Enquiry: The main form of teaching session will be seminars and workshops, where concepts and skills introduced by the lecturer will be learned through practical application – specific tasks, problem-solving and discussion, with regular provision of formative feedback on those activities.
- Directed Activities: Although students will not undertake directed activities at Level 0, students will be set regular activities that will require completion outside formal classes. Formative feedback will be provided on these.
- Use of VLE: To support student-led inquiry, learning materials and resources are supplied in advance via Moodle. Resources offered include bespoke videos and podcasts; links to external sites and online resources; online quizzes; and access to all handouts, powerpoints, etc. In addition, all seminars will be followed by a student-led summary of key points learned and discussed, posted on Moodle.
- Use of other online resources and technology: Full use will be made, in teaching sessions, independent study, and assessment, of online resources available to support an understanding of image, the modern media and academic skills.

Assessment:

- Formative Assessment: Students will have access to formative assessment in every module that they study on. This will usually take the form of feedback on specific tasks given in teaching sessions, online feedback, or feedback on outline plans for assessed work.
- Diversity of Assessment methods: Assessment methods will be varied in form and credit value.

- Negotiated Assessment: Students will have the opportunity, in SOC/SHN/LAW/CYP/BMM/COM/HUM3103 Project to negotiate the mode of assessment for a particular assignment. Forms of negotiated assessment might include: video, podcast, written project.
